Mr D Jones

Dear Mr Jones

Thank you for your email of 28 January about our handling of your Freedom of Information Act requests. I am sorry that you remain dissatisfied and I have noted that you are considering making a formal complaint to the Information Commissioner.

Turing to the other issue you raised, the Wales Office does indeed publish the information we release on our website. For requests that are not yet resolved, we don't publish the information until the process has been completed so that all of the information can be published together. In the case of the requests you have made, this would normally have followed the outcome of the internal review. Unfortunately, due to a combination of factors, staff and structural changes here, we have not yet published information we have released in response to FOI requests since early December. This will be done as a matter of urgency, and we will put in place new rules to ensure that information is published on our website more quickly. Thank you for bringing this to my attention.

Yours sincerely

Fiona Adams-Jones
