3.2.4 Footways (including pedestrianised areas) and Cycleways

Footways and cycleways shall not receive precautionary salting for frost and/or ice under normal winter conditions. Post salting of footways and cycleways may only be carried out on a specified network when

- The 5 day forecast temperature would not rise above zero for several days; and
- Ice is forecast to form on footways and the condition continues after midday on any individual day.

The treatment of footways and cycleways should be started as soon as practicable after precautionary salting routes have been completed and there is sufficient residual salt to protect main routes against prevailing conditions (see Appendix H for detailed map).
