Dear Robert MacLean

Request for Information

Firstly, for clarification, the cost which the LSC has accessed in its previous response concerns the search for the information, as apposed to copying invoices.

Thank you for your further request for information. The information held by the LSC about which members of staff have attended Common Purpose training courses is likely to be recorded on the invoices previously requested. It would therefore be necessary for the LSC to locate the relevant invoices to identify the names of course attendees, and thereafter to seek to identify what role each individual occupied at the time of the course attendance (which information itself might require further reference to other records). The LSC therefore assesses the cost of identifying the information would exceed the appropriate cost limit as laid down by the Freedom of Information and Data Protection (Appropriate Limit and Fees) Regulations 2004.

In accordance with section 12 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000, the LSC therefore considers it does not have an obligation to comply with this request and has decided not to comply with this request.

If you are dissatisfied with the LSC's handling of this request, you can complain. The LSC maintains a complaint procedure in accordance with section 50 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000. Details of the procedure are maintained on the LSC website at:
