David,

Just to keep you updated in respect of the BBC's response to your letter of 9 November 2009.

The BBC now expects to be able to send Ofcom its formal response on Tuesday next week (8 December 2009).

I must apologise for the time taken in preparing this response. The combination of a range of inputs from across the BBC and the very significant communication events associated with the technical launch of the platform on Wednesday, have made it impossible for me to finalise a response as quickly as I had hoped. However, I am now very hopeful that this will be achieved next week, subject to final internal sign-off.

Kind regards,

James
