Dear Mr Gurney,

We write regarding your email to the BBC of 8 September 2017 which states:

Thank you for your prompt response. Unfortunately, I am unable to find the documentation to which you refer in the ZIP file.

On 8 September, the BBC provided you with the files necessary to understand and implement the Barley source code. The nature of your request, and the files provided, require some knowledge of coding and, as made clear in our response of 8 September, also require particular software to access some of the documents contained in the file. The BBC is not able to provide you with the requested information in a different format as this would materially alter the files.

Sincerely,

BBC Information Rights
