Angela,

[REDACTED]

Yesterday it came to our attention that due to a technical/human error (comms) when refreshing the MOJ youtube channel that the original video became available again. This received attention in the certain blogs on the internet (for example: <http://diaryofabenefitscrounger.blogspot.co.uk/2012/06/help-make-grayling-mad.html>). DWP notified us of this, and we had the video removed immediately. It was however available for 16 days, and has been re-uploaded to youtube by another user. We can have the video removed from youtube on copyright grounds, but it became more difficult to do so if it should reach the wider internet.

DWP have asked that we maintain all efforts to keep it off youtube, but appreciate the difficulties in doing so for other blogs and sites. They also understand that there pursuing those who post the video on other sites may just inflame/draw attention to the situation.

Comms have agreed to do their best to have the video removed from youtube, and will monitor the situation as it develops.

I hope you are happy with this approach, and very happy to discuss.

The steer from DWP is that they appreciate the difficulties in doing anything if it posted anywhere else, but if we could remove it from youtube if at all possible, that would be great. [REDACTED]

Hi [REDACTED]

In the process of undertaking housekeeping on the Justice YouTube channel, to ensure that the videos on the channel were embedded in appropriate places throughout the Justice website, the SSCS video was inadvertently put back live, a result of human error.

I think it important to point out that there is a possibility that a copy of the video may have been taken by a viewer and as a result it may reappear on YouTube.

I hope this is sufficient information for the moment.
