In my opinion councils should not be permitted to print their own newspapers and should have to use their local newspapers for all advertising. All of them that I have seen are used to brainwash the local residents that read them into voting for the ruling party or person at the next election. It is just free advertising for them as the other parties are not mentioned and I don't want my council tax spent on their publicity campaigns. It should only be spent on things that benefit the whole of the borough and not politicians. Fred Hunt
