Subject: Confirmation/clarification - loans to candidates

Dear Natalie,

I have just been talking to the Cambridge Agent (yes, them again) about loans to candidates. This is not an issue that has come up before in my party, so I'm not as on the ball with the law on this as I might be. I gather you have advised that these do not need to be recorded.

I note that PPERA 2000 has sections on both loans and donations to party members, but only a section on donations to candidates and not one on loans to them.

Can you confirm that candidates are not 'captured' within the section on loans to individual party members?

Further, the Commission's guide for General Election candidates and agents (4.2) classes loans not on commercial terms, and that are over £50, as a donation, in which case my view would be that they must be recorded in the Return of Expenses in the same way. I am assuming that the £50 threshold applies to the value of the loan itself, and not just the notional value of a loan that could arise out of a saving on commercial interest rates.

Thanks for your attention.

Chris Rose. Green Party National Election Agent.
