| 17 | Details of Special Branch activities in respect of IRA operations on mainland UK (1939/40) | Gill Brown - SO15 | S40 - Anti terrorism related. | 2010010002715 | 08/02/2010 | During 1939 and 1940, the Irish Republican Army carried out a bombing campaign in England. I have read that the Special Branch of the Metropolitan Police in London took the lead in combating the IRA bombers. Therefore, did the Special Branch conduct raids and arrest IRA suspects all across the United Kingdom by themselves? As I understand it, the Special Branch consisted solely of members from the Metropolitan Police in London during that time (1939 to 1940), so I imagine the Special Branch would have been stretched thin when it was deployed all over Great Britain at the same time when it was hunting for IRA suspects. |
