Dear Rebecca Kelly,

I write in response to the above-referenced Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request submitted on the 27th December 2018. Thames Valley Police has now considered this request, which for clarity, has been repeated below:

Request	Response
How often do police pressure victims into making a report against their violent ex that never goes to court? How often is the excuse it's your word against Thiers given even when their medical evidence witnesses and the abuser has a history of violence towards his ex's my children and TVP are aware of recent reports of D.V from weeks earlier? How many of these innocence happen @ Milton Keynes police station? How often are victims killed or seriously hurt before police do take any action? How does reporting abusive ex's to you build a case apart from it being made about the victims parenting to the local authority? Why would TVP insist you report assaults if it was over the statue of limitations and nothing could be done about it?	Under the provisions of the FOIA legislation, Thames Valley Police are obliged to disclose recorded information and not necessarily answer questions relating to specific scenarios or confirm/deny statements. Under Section 8(1)(c) these questions are not deemed to be a request under the provisions of the Act. However, the following link will provide information regarding how Thames Valley Police deal with reports of Domestic Abuse in order to protect the victims of such offences. https://www.thamesvalley.police.uk/advice/advice-and-information/daa/domestic-abuse/ The following link will also provide further information into how the police deal with reports of Domestic Abuse along with services that have been set up in order to help victims.
