Dear Steven Davidson,

Thank you for your email of 23 January, in which you ask:

Dear General Register Office, I would like to apply for information from the Sex Offences Register regarding a specific individual and his location who is on record as violently assaulting myself some years ago.

Your request has been handled as a request for information under the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

The Home Office does not hold the information which you have requested.

This information is owned by police forces in England and Wales. You may wish to approach your local police force for a response to your request.

Alternatively, as a victim of crime, you can contact the Victim Contact Scheme. Full details can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/get-support-as-a-victim-of-crime>

If you are dissatisfied with this response you may request an independent internal review of our handling of your request by submitting a complaint within two months to foirequests@homeoffice.gsi.gov.uk, quoting reference 52085. If you ask for an internal review, it would be helpful if you could say why you are dissatisfied with the response.

As part of any internal review the Department's handling of your information request would be reassessed by staff who were not involved in providing you with this response. If you were to remain dissatisfied after an internal review, you would have a right of complaint to the Information Commissioner as established by section 50 of the FOIA.

Yours sincerely

R. Byrne
