| 1 | N/A I do attend. |
| 2 | I work in the XYZ located in XYZ so once I have driven to work for a 9am start I have to leave at 11.00 for a 12pm meeting, that means driving home, parking at my house and walking 15 mins to any of the venues. I can't get to Newington Barrow.
Then drive back to work and then home again at the end of the day. I did used to attend but the timings caused me a great deal of hassle at work so I stopped attending. But I would like to attend again. Even if half the meetings during the year were first or last thing in the day I'd be able to attend some. |
| 3 | Transportation to the venue - have no problems getting there via public transport by using my Freedom Pass - however getting there and back with my mobility issues takes a lot of time out of the working day and catching up with my work can be difficult. |
| 5 | No reason, I just have not considered attending until now |
| 6 | Generally work pressures |
| 7 | Managers permission, also as it is in the middle if the day, travel to and from meeting means closer to 3 hours out of the office. Maybe make meetings 10-12am or 3-5pm? |
| 9 | I can't get to the Town Hall from NBW without my support worker. I would like to try the "getting a lift scheme" but I would first want to find out what the logistics are - who's driving, where the parking is, etc. |
| 10 | Time management, also that my disabilities are not visible (don't always feel like I really 'qualify' as disabled) |
| 11 | work-load |
| 12 | time constraints at work don't have the time to attend |
| 13 | Workload |
| 14 | The day they are on |
| 15 | I have wanted to attend, but found the information not easy to follow e.g. time, date and venue.
It could be just me but my dyslexia can leave me confused and I find all meetings a nerve wracking experience. |
| 16 | I would like to attend, but to be honest it's boring I never come away feeling it's a positive experience. It always feels like people are moaning about their problems and not coming up with ideas or solutions to make their working life better. |

1 Training

Disabled access to work

I/T

Cuts

Leadership opportunities and training. Discrimination at work.

2 I'm open to any topics. Especially "Islington's Passport" to disability. I have just found out it exists. My HR rep and Health and Safety rep were un-ware of it.
I wonder how many others are not familiar with it?

3 - latest news that may affect people with disability - perhaps provide useful links or signposting to events;

- discussion on what would encourage more people to attend;

- have guest speakers at each meeting on disability issues/topic that may affect us/?is entertainment possible;

- invite people from other local authorities on what is happening where they are, positive or otherwise, to encourage supportive networking.

4 Mental well being

5 Mental health and wellbeing at work Mindfulness

6 Some discussion of support for staff with non-visible disabilities would be good

7 I would like to hear from inspiring leaders like other successful people with impairments that have achieved success publically in some way. or maybe from Disability diversity trainers that could talk to us about resilience and owning our achievements. reframing our struggle into business friendly attributes like tenacious, hard working etc.

9 Improving understanding, support, and adjustments for employees with mental health issues, and reducing stigma, including for anxiety disorders. Making mental health awareness, and anxiety disorders awareness training more available.

Ensuring all managers complete the disability awareness training.

11 How to help employees to understand their rights and responsibilities within LBI. Assistant

12 not sure

13 Rest room facilities and building access.

| 2 | I can make my own way there. And I'm flexible for AM or late afternoon meetings. |
| 3 | Have requested transport to the next meeting on Thursday 14th July. |
| 7 | I would like us to invite external leaders, trainers, coaches etc. As others to attend, create earning and growing environment. |
| | Please change the name! Disabled Staff Forum is too negative. Maybe ourselves Problem Solvers Staff Forum. we could call ig name may encourage |
| 8 | Yes would like transport from Newington barrow way to Town hall. a b
Would like the time to change as lunch time to afternoons like 4pm to 6pm I can attend that.
As during lunchtimes some of us have prayer times and it clashes with that. |
| 11 | I think the forum has come ong way- perhaps managers could be encouraged to remind their staff that these forums are there to support employees and attendance is encouraged- no need to book leave to attend- so perhaps look at 'cover arrangements' for staff to enable them to come?
Further 'buddying' network |
