Dear Ms McKee

I am writing in response to your email dated 31 August 2017 under the Freedom of Information Act requesting the following information:

For the years 2012 to 2017, could you please advise the percentage of Land Economy offer holders who were studying:

- a) Mathematics at A level
- b) Mathematics and Further Mathematics at A level

Data relating to applications for 2017 entry can be found below. Newnham College has not retained the collated data of A-level subject choices of undergraduates offered places to study Land Economy at Newnham prior to the 2016-17 application round. The time required to collate and cross-reference this source data would exceed the statutory limit (which corresponds to 18 hours of time).

Percentage of A-level offer holders (for Land Economy) for entry in 2017 studying Mathematics at A Level: 100%

Percentage of A-level offer holders (for Land Economy) for entry in 2017 studying Mathematics and Further Mathematics at A Level: 0%

While your request relates to the undergraduates admitted to Newnham, the University also provides information relating to application and admissions statistics for the Land Economy course. This information can be referenced at:

<http://www.undergraduate.study.cam.ac.uk/apply/statistics>

I hope this information is helpful.

Yours sincerely

Jenny Raine
