FREEDOM OF INFORMATION (SCOTLAND) ACT 2002

I refer to your recent request for information which has been handled in accordance with the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002.

For ease of reference, your request is replicated below together with the response.

For the former legacy force area of Glasgow only, please provide the names of all child activist groups from which child grooming cases emanated in 2019. Please specify the number of cases that emanated from each.

Unfortunately, I do not know have any knowledge of how you keep your records; therefore, if the phrase 'the former legacy force area of Glasgow' causes similar problems with retrieval etc., please restrict my request to the police area of Glasgow that includes Buchanan Bus Station.

Having considered your request in terms of the above Act, I regret to inform you that I am unable to provide you with the information you have requested, as it would prove too costly to do so within the context of the fee regulations. As you may be aware the current cost threshold is £600 and I estimate that it would cost well in excess of this amount to process your request. As such, and in terms of Section 16(4) of the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 where Section 12(1) of the Act (Excessive Cost of Compliance) has been applied, this represents a refusal notice for the information sought.

By way of explanation, to provide the information requested would require an individual to review 266 crime files. If we estimate that it takes 10 minutes to check each record this would total 44 hours. Once this information has been gathered there would still be a requirement to cross reference with other police systems. This would be a significant task and would exceed the cost threshold.

Should you require any further assistance please contact Information Management - Glasgow on 01786 895867 quoting the reference number given.

If you are dissatisfied with the way in which Police Scotland has dealt with your request, you are entitled, in the first instance, to request a review of our actions and decisions.
