Dear Mr Geoff Beacon,

Thank you for your emails of 23rd April where you requested the following information:

1. Please supply documents written in the past 2 years held by the Department for Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy, which mention GWP;*
2. Please supply documents written in the past 2 years held by the Department for Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy, which mention GWP.*

Your requests have been considered under the Environmental Information Regulations 2004 ('the EIRs') on the basis that the information you have asked for falls within the definition of 'environmental information' in the EIRs.

The Department wishes to be as open as possible in answering requests, and to help people obtain the information they are looking for. Unfortunately, in this case to determine whether the Department holds the information you requested and to locate, retrieve and extract the information would require a substantial volume of work. This is because the terms in your request are very broad. We would need to search across many teams to identify all items in scope of your request and this would be a manifestly unreasonable burden on the Department. The Information Commissioner's Office guidance confirms that the costs of considering if information is exempt can be taken into account as relevant arguments under EIR Regulation 12(4)(b).

After careful examination of your request under the EIRs, we have determined that Regulation 12(4)(b) would apply. Regulation 12(4)(b) states that a public authority may refuse to disclose information to the extent that the request for information is manifestly unreasonable.

In applying the exception, we have considered the public interest test in respect of your requests. We have applied a presumption in favour of disclosure as required by Regulation 12(2). We acknowledge that there is a public interest in the information you have requested. Greater transparency makes Government more accountable to the electorate and increases trust and also enables the public contribution to policy making to become more effective. However, your requests are too broad. Gathering the information you have requested would involve a significant cost and diversion of resources from the teams concerned and the Department's other work. Therefore, we will not process your requests as currently drafted.

Given the nature of your requests, you may wish to refine it by narrowing its scope and being more specific concerning the precise nature of the information you wish to obtain. You may consider reducing the scope of your request. This will help us determine whether we are able to locate and provide all the relevant information.

Appeals procedure

If you are dissatisfied with the handling of your request, you have the right to ask for an internal review. Internal review requests should be submitted within two months of the date of receipt of the response to your original request and should be addressed to the Information Rights & Records Unit. It would be helpful if you can tell us why you are dissatisfied with the response to your request so we may address this during the internal review.
