280928		08-Feb-13 03:43 PM	WHITEWAY, ALFRISTON	Dear Sir/Madam Yesterday evening I was travelling from Seaford to Alfriston and encountered a pot-hole (well more a huge gash in the road) and unfortunately this blew my rear-side front tyre out. I have had to urgently get a replacement tyre and have also been advised that there is now a kink in the wheel itself. Prior to this I had only fairly recently replaced all my tyres so they were still new and I am very annoyed that the state of our county's roads has led me into further considerable expense. I would like to know whether you already know about this pothole. If not, at the moment I am not sure of the exact location either other than it was on the road either just before or just after the give way to oncoming traffic restriction point, but I can go back and find out. Also, what you are able to do by way of recompense? Thanks.
