Dear A Clerk

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION

Thank you for your emails of 10 December 2015 in which you asked:

We have a democratic system of government where the elected party serves a fixed term set out under the rules. Powers which appear unconditional can be potentially devastating for the citizens residing in the country.

We have, in relatively recent years, seen problems created because the government elected can not be challenged over decision, no matter what dire consequences they might have for the country as a whole. I believe we should have learned lessons about how vulnerable we are in this regard. I would therefore like assurance that ultimately power is held in the hands of our psychiatric assessment specialists.

This leads me to my question I would like answering under the Freedom of Information Act 2000:

Q) Does whoever is serving as the Minister for Work and Pensions at the time undergo psychiatric assessment to assess the suitability for deciding the fate of the UK, and if so, with what regularity?

No information is held by the Department with regards to your request.

If you have any queries about this letter please contact me quoting the reference number above.

Yours sincerely
