Request	I would like to find out the average, the lowest, and the highest SAT Reasoning Test (SAT 1) scores for those students who were admitted to read law (courses M100, M190). Please provide this data for each of the past 5 years.

Dear Mr Armstrong,

I write in reply to your email requesting the above information, which you may find attached.

Part of your request is for detailed individual level data. We consider that disclosure of this information in the form requested might enable those with access to other information or knowledge (e.g. those associated with individuals who are known to have applied) to identify individuals and learn new information about those individuals. For this reason, in order to reduce the risk of individuals being identified, we have withheld some scores where there are fewer than 3 individuals. This is shown as an asterisk (*).

In taking that measure, we are applying the exemption in section 40(2) of the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA). Section 40(2) provides an exemption from disclosure for information that is the personal data of an individual other than the requester, where disclosure would breach any of the data protection principles in Article 5 of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). We consider that disclosure of the information requested in the exact form requested would breach the first data protection principle, which requires that personal data is processed lawfully, fairly and in a transparent manner. Disclosure would be unfair to the individuals concerned, as it would be contrary to their reasonable and legitimate expectations. They would not reasonably expect that information about their scores would be made public under the FOIA without their consent.

For the disclosure of personal data to be lawful, it must have a lawful basis under Article 6 of the GDPR. There are six possible lawful bases in Article 6; we do not consider that any of them would be satisfied in respect of the disclosure.

The exemption in section 40(2) is an absolute exemption and is not subject to the public interest test provided for in section 2(2)(b) of the FOIA. To the extent that the public interest is relevant in this case, the University considers it is satisfied by the attached information.
