Dear [redacted],

5 July 2021

REFERENCE: FOI/21/90

Thank you for your email dated 29 May 2021 in which you requested a copy of the following information from the Northern Ireland Office:

"In December 2020, Brandon Lewis had a meeting with newspaper journalists to discuss the end of the Transition Period, according to transparency data.

I would like to request the following information in relation to this meeting:

- 1. Details of where the meeting between the minister and newspaper journalists to discuss the end of the Transition Period took place, who was in attendance, and how it lasted.*
- 2. All documents created in connection the meeting with newspaper journalists to discuss the end of the Transition Period. This could include, but not be limited to, any minutes or notes taken at the minutes or afterwards, or any presentations prepared as part of the meeting.*
- 3. Email correspondence related to this meeting sent by or received by the Department/the minister in advance of, and after the meeting."*

Your request has been handled under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA).

In relation to question 1, this meeting took place virtually with reporters present and lasted approximately 10 minutes.

It is the Department's position that information relating to who was in attendance constitutes individuals personal data. Therefore this information is being withheld by way of Section 40(2) (personal data) of the Freedom of Information Act.

Section 40 provides an exemption from the right to information if it is personal data as defined in the DPA. These state that you should not disclose information under FOIA or the EIR if:

- it is the personal data of the requestor; or
- it is the personal data of someone else;

Additionally personal data should not be disclosed if it would contravene the data protection principles, if disclosure would contravene an objection to processing, or if the data is exempt from the right of subject access.

Section 40(2) exempts personal information from disclosure if that information relates to someone other than the applicant, and if disclosure of that information would, amongst other things, contravene one of the data protection principles set out in Article 5 of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). In this case, I believe disclosure would contravene data protection principle (a), which provides that personal data must be processed fairly and lawfully. Section 40(2) is an absolute exemption and the Northern Ireland Office is not obliged to consider whether the public interest favours disclosing the information.

In relation to questions 2 and 3, we hold information within scope of your request, however this is exempt under section 35(1)(a) and (b) (formulation of government policy) and section 40(2) (personal data) of the Freedom of Information Act,

Section 35 (formulation of government policy)

Section 35 (formulation of government policy) is a qualified exemption, which means that the decision to disclose the requested material is subject to the public interest test. When assessing whether or not it was in the public interest to disclose the information to you, we took into account the following factors:

Public interest considerations favouring disclosure

- The public having a greater understanding of Government policy
- Greater transparency of Government policy.

Public interest considerations favouring withholding

These public interests have been weighed against a strong public interest that policy-making and its implementation are of the highest quality and informed by a full consideration of all the options.

- Ministers must be able to discuss policy freely and frankly, exchange views on available options and understand their possible implications.
- The candour of all involved would be affected by their assessment of whether the content of the discussions will be disclosed prematurely.
- If discussions were routinely made public there is a risk that Ministers may feel inhibited from being frank and candid with one another.
- As a result the quality of debate underlying collective decision making would decline, leading to worse informed and poorer decision making. This could potentially damage the Government's policy-making process, which remains ongoing.

Taking into account all the circumstances of this case, we reached the view that, on balance, the public interest favours withholding this information at this time.

Yours sincerely,

Freedom of information Team
