

Access to DCLG Information

INTRODUCTION

This leaflet explains how you can get access to information that we hold at the Department for Communities and Local Government (DCLG).

PUBLISHED INFORMATION

We publish information in the following ways, all of which you can have access to.

- The publication scheme lists the published information, by categories, available from us, our agencies and regional offices. This scheme tells you how to get documents and whether there is a charge.
- The publications database contains details of our publications issued since May 2002. You can browse or search for particular publications, see what's new and send us your comments. It tells you how to ask for free publications and how to order (and pay for) priced publications.
- Recently released information such as latest announcements, publications and press releases.
- The information asset register (IAR) lists unpublished information that we hold and that is available for access if you ask.

You can find the publication scheme, publications database, IAR and recently released information on our website at www.communities.gov.uk

REQUESTS FOR INFORMATION

If information has not been published yet, or will not be published, you can still ask for it under the following access guidelines.

Freedom of Information Act 2000. Apart from certain exemptions, the Act gives a general right of access to information that we hold.

Environmental Information Regulations 2004. These regulations give you a right of access to environmental information that we hold, including information about air, water, land, natural sites, plants and wildlife.

Data Protection Act 1998. The Act gives you the right to ask for access to ‘personal data’ that is held about you.

HOW WE WILL HANDLE YOUR REQUEST

Freedom of Information Act. Whenever possible, we will reply to your request within 20 working days of receiving it. In some circumstances, it may take us longer to provide the information.

If this is the case, we will write to tell you when you can expect a reply. We may also ask you for a fee if we need to charge you for the information. If we cannot provide the information, we will write to explain why we cannot give you the information. One reason could be that we do not hold the relevant information or that it is ‘exempt from release’ (in other words, we cannot give you the information by law).

Environmental Information Regulations. We will handle any requests made under these regulations in the same way as requests made under the Freedom of Information Act. With complicated requests, however, it may take us up to 40 working days to send all the information to you.

Data Protection Act. We will search all the relevant records that we hold to find any ‘personal data’ we hold about you. We will send the information we hold within 40 days of receiving your request.
