

Important

This booklet is intended for those who have applied to become licensed suburban taxi drivers in London and whose application has been accepted. It supplements the introductory talk given by a Knowledge of London Examiner before you start learning the 'Knowledge' and provides the framework of routes to aid learning the topography of the nine suburban sectors.

If you have not already successfully applied to become licensed you should first read the booklet entitled 'How to become a licensed taxi or private hire driver'.

The ‘Knowledge of London’

This book is aimed at helping you to gain the necessary knowledge of London to enable you to qualify as a suburban taxi driver.

What you need to know about London

To achieve the required standard to be licensed as a suburban taxi driver you will need a thorough knowledge, primarily, of your chosen sector.

You will need to know: all the streets, housing estates; parks and open spaces; government offices and departments; financial and commercial centres; diplomatic premises; town halls; registry offices; hospitals; places of worship; sports stadiums and leisure centres; stations; hotels; clubs; theatres; cinemas; museums; art galleries; schools; colleges and universities; societies; associations and institutions; police stations and headquarters buildings; civil, criminal and coroner’s courts; prisons; and places of interest to tourists. In fact, anywhere a taxi passenger might ask to be taken. These places are also known as ‘points’. You need to be able to show that you can travel between any two points over the shortest distance.

The equipment you need to learn the ‘Knowledge’

This Guide to Learning the ‘Knowledge of London’ has become known as the ‘Blue Book’ and provides the basis from which to work.

Routes

In Annex A there are lists of routes, known as ‘runs’ for each sector which you should learn in detail as described below.

Maps

You will require large-scale maps (at least 3 inches to 1 mile/5cm to 1km) which covers the whole of your sector plus a map or road atlas which covers the whole of Greater London.

Transport

In order to travel the routes you will need a means of personal transport (experience suggests that a moped or scooter provides the most flexible and convenient transport for applicants).

Call-over partner

Finally, you need a ‘call-over’ partner; that is someone to put questions to you in the way the examiners will. Helpful as members of your family or friends might be, if they have not done, or are not doing, the Knowledge they are of limited use. Most people on the Knowledge come to realise how important it is to have a call-over partner.

How to learn the ‘Knowledge’

- Before the lists of routes for each sector at Annex A, there is a sample route which demonstrates what is required when preparing a route before learning it. You should learn the sample route so that you experience what is essential when you are learning the ‘Knowledge of London’. It also gives examples of points of interest you should find around both the start and finish points, and some points of interest along your particular route. The lists of points are not exhaustive, you will be able to find more.
- Each of the runs in Annex A has a start and finish point. Using your maps, work out the most direct route between the start and finish points.
- When you get to a start point you must first learn the area within a 1/2 mile (800m) radius of that point and make a note of the places of interest/important features you see. You need to learn the streets and roads that join the places you find to the route. Take time and trouble to do this, it is important.
- When travelling along the route take note of any important features you see (Features are not only points of interest, but also include one-way streets, prohibited turns, etc).
- At the end of the run you must investigate the area within a 1/2 mile (800m) radius of the finish point for places of interest and important features.

- Learning the area around the start and finish points of all the runs will ensure that you comprehensively cover the area within the sector and build up a good working knowledge.
- Remember that because of one-way streets, no right turns, etc., the forward and reverse routes may be different.

You will need to know both directions.

- The process illustrated needs to be repeated for each of the runs in your sector. This will take you some time. There is no substitute for constantly travelling the routes.
- The taxi ranks on your sector are also listed. You must learn where they are and you must be able to describe routes from the ranks to the points of interest on your sector.
- You will not acquire sufficient knowledge simply by studying a map; you will only gain the necessary knowledge by travelling the routes.
- Remember that London is an ever-changing city and the 'Knowledge of London' candidates must continually maintain and update their knowledge.
- While you are learning the runs you will need to regularly test yourself by calling over with your partner and practice answering questions in the manner required for one to one interviews with a Knowledge of London Examiner.

Answering questions on the ‘Knowledge’

You will be tested on your Knowledge by way of one-to-one examinations (known as ‘appearances’) undertaken by a Knowledge of London Examiner. Your first appearance will last about 30 minutes, subsequent appearances about 15 minutes.

An outline of the examination system and how you progress through it is at Annex B.

The examiner will first ask you two ‘points’, the locations of which you will need to identify correctly before you will be allowed to call the ‘run’. Having done this you should then give the shortest route between the points. If the places asked for are buildings, sports grounds or similar, you should begin your answer by saying which side of the road the point will be on when you set off, i.e. “Leave on the left/right”, locating the building according to the direction in which you will be travelling.

Describe the route naming every street travelled along and stating when a change of direction has to be made.

On arrival at the destination you should identify which side of the road the destination is on, i.e., “set down on the left/right”, depending on the direction from which it is approached. Buildings or side turnings on the route should not be given.

Because this edition covers all nine sectors, the following example from the ‘All London Blue Book’ is used, but the method is the same.

For example, if asked:

“The old Public Carriage Office to the British Museum?”

the correct reply would be:

“The old Public Carriage Office is in Penton Street, and the British Museum is in Great Russell Street.”

You would then be asked to detail your route between the two points as follows:

Remember you must know the runs in both directions.

Road works and temporary diversions should be ignored, as they will eventually revert. However, there may be roads from which you are prohibited but are able to be used by taxi drivers. These cannot be ignored, as you will be expected to be aware of them and points within them.

Do not waste too much time trying to remember the answers to the questions; if you do not know the answer, say so. This will allow more effective use of the time available.

Remember, the Blue Book is just a guide and the questions you will be asked will not necessarily be precisely the same. That is why it will be necessary for you to learn the places of interest around the start, along, and around the finish of the routes listed in Annex A, and the streets, roads, etc. which join them to the routes. Questions in Knowledge of London examinations will be based on such places.

Knowledge of central London

When you have shown that you have a satisfactory knowledge of your sector you will have to show that you have a good working knowledge of central London. You will have to show that you can get from your sector to major locations in central London and to Heathrow and London City Airports. For this you will need a map which covers the whole of the Greater London area.

For example, you will be required to locate:

- Mainline railway stations
- Major hospitals
- Major hotels
- Major sports venues
- Museums
- Theatres
- Tourist areas

When giving answers to questions about your knowledge of central London, you will need to be able to name the streets and roads that join your sector to the central London points. You will also have to be able to describe routes from your sector to London Heathrow Airport and the London City Airport.

Advice on attending London Taxi and Private Hire offices

Make sure you give yourself plenty of time to arrive early enough for your examination. It is recommended you arrive 20 minutes before your appointment owing to the security arrangements at Palestra and this will allow you to settle beforehand. If you are late it will not be practicable for you to be examined. Examinations are tied to a booked appointment schedule and any delays would have a knock on effect on other candidates.

Please note that there are no parking facilities at Palestra and there are parking restrictions in the surrounding streets.

Palestra is fully accessible to people with disabilities, however if you have special requirements we will endeavour to accommodate them.

The Licensing Authority encourages licensed taxi drivers in London to dress in a manner that reflects favourably upon their profession as self-employed business people in a service industry. In seeking to become licensed you are, therefore, asked to present a clean and smart appearance when attending the Palestra.

Additional Information

When you begin one to one examination you will be required to pay a one-off examination fee. For the current fee please contact London Taxi and Private Hire or go to www.tfl.gov.uk/tph.

All applicants taking Knowledge of London examinations will be treated equally regardless of ethnic or national origin, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, disability or learning difficulties. If you have any special needs that need to be taken into consideration during the examination process you should advise a member of the London Taxi and Private Hire.

You will be required to undertake and pass a driving test in a taxi before being licensed and this will be undertaken during the latter part of the Knowledge of London testing process. You will be advised when to apply for the driving test, for which a fee will be charged at the time of booking.

If you are convicted of any offence at any time, or if you change your address, or if you develop a medical problem which may affect your ability to drive vocationally (or you are prescribed medication which is not compatible with vocational driving), you must notify London Taxi and Private Hire immediately. If in any doubt about whether you need to notify the London Taxi and Private Hire - ask.

When you have met all the conditions of licensing you will be awarded your badge and licence.

Remember

- Learn the routes in the order shown in the book as these have been set out in a logical sequence to aid learning.
- Ensure the 1/2 mile radii at the beginning and end of each route are covered comprehensively.
- You must be able to describe how to join the points of interest you find to the start or end of a route.
- Learn the routes in both directions.
- It is best to have a 'call-over' partner who is also doing the Knowledge.
- You cannot learn the Knowledge from a book or a map. You will require the practical knowledge and experience that can only be gained on the street.
- The time taken to learn the Knowledge will depend on your personal circumstances, ability and commitment.

If you require advice on any of the information given in the Introductory Talk or in this guide, then do not hesitate to ask a member of London Taxi and Private Hire who will do their best to assist.

A large, light gray, stylized letter 'A' serves as the background for the entire page. It is composed of several geometric shapes, including triangles and quadrilaterals, creating a modern, architectural feel.

Annex A

The suburban sectors and lists of routes

Annex A

The lists of suburban sector routes and ranks, which are the basis for the questions you will be asked at your examinations.

The first page of each section contains a detailed sample route indicating how you should prepare each of the routes listed for the sectors.

You should learn your particular sample route so that you get a feel for what is essential when you are learning the 'Knowledge'. It also gives examples of points of interest you should find around both the start and finish points, and some points of interest along this particular route. The lists of points are not exhaustive, you will be able to find more. You need to learn the streets and roads that join the places you find to the route.

In order that you, as a suburban London taxi driver, are better able to comply with the lawful obligation to accept journeys up to 12 miles, you will be asked questions that include the major points of interest in the sectors on either side of your chosen sector.

The Suburban Sectors

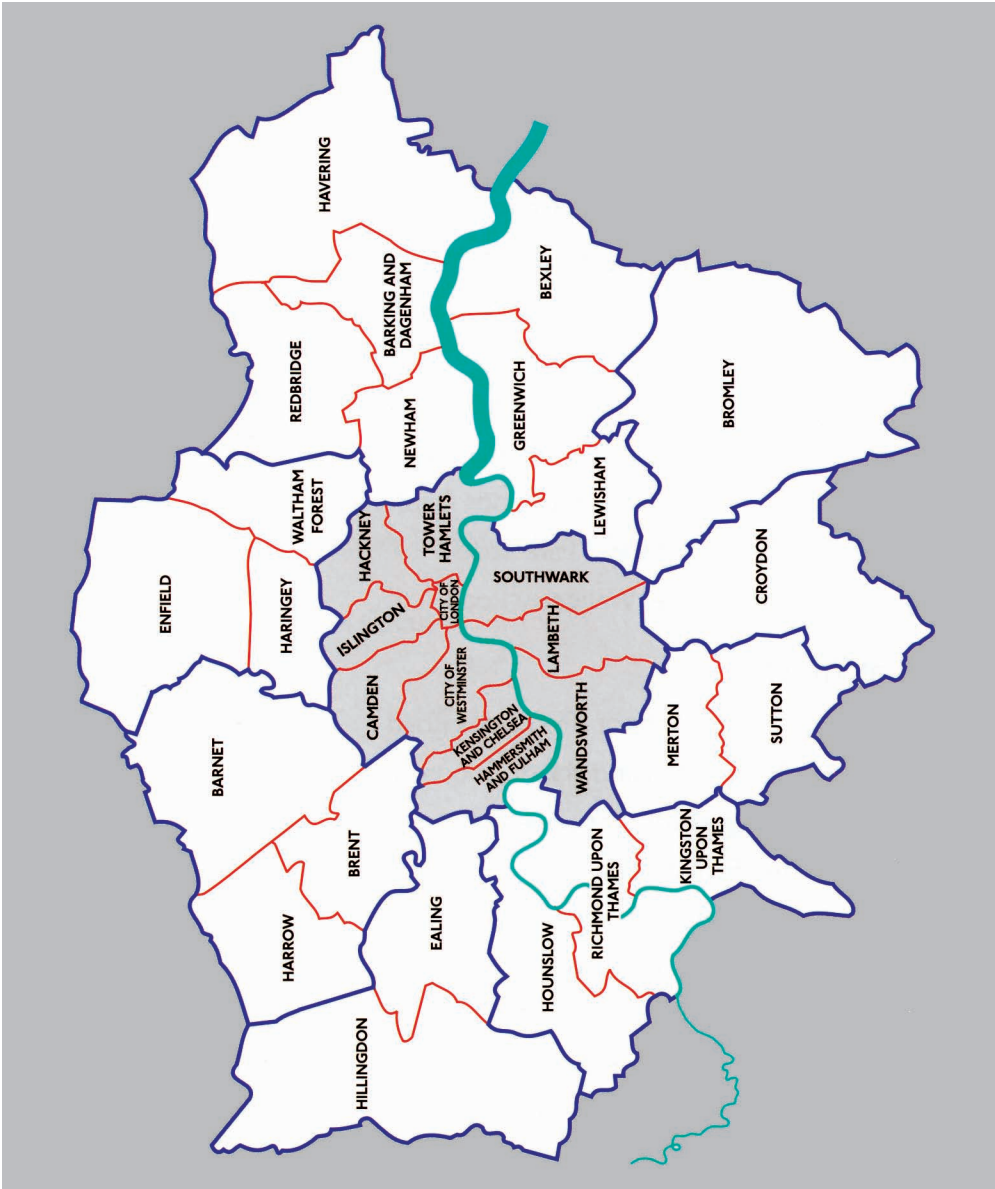

The suburban sectors are based on the boundaries of the Greater London Boroughs as follows:-

Index

Sectors	Pages
Barking and Dagenham, Havering, Newham and Redbridge	22 - 29
Barnet, Brent and Harrow	30 - 35
Bexley, Greenwich and Lewisham	36 - 41

The 'Knowledge of London' examination system

Suburban Applicants

- At each one-to-one examination students are asked a number of questions in the same form as the example on page 9. The examiner records both the question asked and their assessment of the answers.
- A correct answer is one that gives the right location of both the start and finish points and the shortest route between the two without any mistakes. Students will be marked down if, for example:
 - the start and/or finish points cannot be located and alternatives have to be asked;
 - incorrect street names given;
 - the route is not the most direct available;
 - the route involves making banned turns or U-turns, contravening 'no entry' signs or travelling the wrong way down one-way streets.
- At the end of the examination the student's overall performance is graded and the grades are translated into points, which, when accumulated in each stage of one-to-one examinations, will allow the student to progress to the next stage.

- The grading system is:

Exceptional	Grade AA	12 points
Very good	Grade A	6 points
Good	Grade B	4 points
Satisfactory	Grade C	3 points
Unsatisfactory	Grade D	0 points

- A total of 12 points is needed to progress to the next stage.
- If a student accumulates four D grades, regardless of the number of points already gained in a stage he/she goes back to the beginning of that stage.
- If on the second attempt at the stage the student again accumulates four D grades they go back to the beginning of the previous stage.
- The examiners are allowed to award one U (for untested) grade, this can take account of a performance that has been affected by illness, domestic problems, etc., treating each case on merit.

- There are four stages of one-to-one examinations:

Basic

Questions will be similar to the routes listed at Annex A, although the start and finish points may be varied to include places of interest either on the route or within the 1/2 mile radius of either end.

Intermediate

The start and finish points will again be places of interest associated with the routes listed at Annex A, however, the questions will be designed to allow the student to show that they can link and combine these routes. This will enable the student to prove they can cope with more complex routes.

Advanced

The questions will no longer be linked to the routes at Annex A but will be designed to allow the student to demonstrate that they have a thorough and up to date knowledge of their sector. At this stage the student will be expected to identify and link any two points of interest in their sector. In addition, at this stage questions about major places in the adjoining sectors will be introduced.

The marking system for these three stages is identical.

As students progress from one stage to another the intervals between examinations become shorter. Initially, examinations can be up to eight weeks apart, reducing to three weeks at the Advanced stage.

Central London

On acquiring 12 points at the Advanced stage the student progresses to the central London examination (see page 11). This is a single one-to-one examination, which the student is simply required to pass. Should the student fail they can re-sit the examination after a short interval.

- In the interests of fairness, students are examined by different Knowledge Examiners in rotation. Therefore, during the one-to-one examination stages applicants will be seen by a variety of examiners.
- The examination system is designed to allow students the opportunity to prove that they have the necessary knowledge to give a good service as a taxi driver. However, whilst there is no intention to cause unnecessary pressure or catch students out, as the progress through the examination system not only will students have to demonstrate a higher level of knowledge but the precision and fluency of their answers will be expected to improve.
