RFI20121451	CLOSED 07/01/2013	[Withheld under Section 40(2)]	I ask the following question under the Freedom of Information Act: In the statement "our enforcement officers have access to hand-held detection devices capable of detecting a TV within 20 seconds" appearing on the BBC's "TV Licensing" web page referred to above, does the term "TV" refer to a "television receiver" or does it refer to a "television set" (as defined in the respective pieces of legislation referred to above)? If the term "TV" does not refer to either of these notions, please state what type of apparatus it does refer to.  Please note I am not asking for information about when a television licence may or may not be required. I am simply asking about the use of this particular term in this particular piece of text. I would expect the answer to be clear and unambiguous.	05/12/2012	07/01/201	3 NM	Request passed by IPC to TVL on 7/1/13. Final draft sent to IPC on 10/1/13.		14/01/2013	25	Information not held	1

RFI20130004	CLOSED 30/01/2013	[Withheld under Section 40(2)]	I am aware that a TV Licence is usually backdated to start immediately after the expiry date of the old Licence, even if the new Licence is purchased weeks or months later.  By reference to policy documents, staff training manuals or similar, please can you tell me:-  1. What is the basis in law for backdating licences, or is it simply BBC policy?  2. What is the maximum period by which a licence would be backdated without the consent of the licence-fee payer?  3. Can a licence-fee payer object to their new licence being backdated (for example, on the basis that they did not use TV in the intervening period)?  4. RFI20130016	COMPLETED 18/02/2013	[Withheld under Section 40(2)]	Yet another license payer has been prosecuted on behalf of the BBC, it seem quite disturbing that the licensing authority is allowing Capita to abuse the court system in the way that it is doing. My questions are  1: Did either the BBC or Capita present a statement under caution that broadcast was being received without a license.  2: As it is now blatantly obvious that the licensing authority prosecutor either lied under oath or did not check the details of the case being presented. Will the prosecutor be censured for presenting false evidence before a court.  If you do not wish to go into detail regarding the 2 questions a simple yes or no answer will suffice. RFI20130019	CLOSED 04/02/2013	[Withheld under Section 40(2)]	I appreciate that you are bound by confidentiality of the names of individuals and I am only requesting numbers, this quantative data request does not breach the act as it does not allude to 'personal' data, but to properties or dwellings. Having cross referenced and triangulated various requests to other bodies and from other concurrent investigations I have established that there are many hundreds of individuals and families living in Royal Palaces and Government buildings, and as you define quarters or lodgings as separate dwellings they are thus responsible for possessing a TV license and this is of public interest. Your criteria for licensing is that:  "You must be covered by a valid TV Licence to watch or record television programmes as they're being shown on TV if you're a tenant or lodger. This includes the use of devices such as a TV, computer, mobile phone, games console, digital box and DVD/VHS recorder.  If you live in self contained accommodation such as a separate flat or annex, then you need your own TV Licence."  (Source – TV Licensing)  I should like to know:  Given that your crown immunity policy stipulates that the onus is on them to prove their exemptions.  - Are you proactively making, and then following up on licensing requests to these premises, and how many requests were made in the last 2 years to how many 'properties' within the palaces/government residences?  - How many exemption requests have you received in the past two years from these dwellings? Please provide information held on/for :-
- Changes to the conditions of the TV license to cover these 'broadcasts'
- Any changes to the BBC definition of 'catch-up tv', 'on-demand tv', 'live broadcast' or 'broadcast'.
- The BBC term by which these 'ahead of live' releases will be known.
- Details of any planned changes to the BBC's TVL detection process
Planned or predicted reduction of TVL detector fleet planned percentage changes will suffice for year on year reductions.
+ Planned or predicted reduction of TVL detector staff numbers - planned percentage changes will suffice for year on year reductions.
+ Planned or predicted reduction of TVL 'investigation officer' numbers - planned percentage changes will suffice for year on year reductions.
+ Changes to the detection process - plans for ISP's to be requested to provided name and address details of their customers using IP addresses to stream programs released in this way
+ Changes to the BBC iPlayer servers logs of connections/users.
+ Changes to the use of BBC iPlayer servers logs of connections/users - is this planned to become evidence of the need for a tv license. If so what actions are planned to ensure that the user of an ip address really is the same as the ISP account holder (name and address)
- Changes already documented and prepared for the website http://www.tvlicensing.co.uk, in particular the page http://www.tvlicensing.co.uk/check-if-you-need-one/topics/technologydevices-and-online-top8/ ( or http://bit.ly/UOcITm )

I have some points of clarification, and related questions following on from this. I again ask these questions under the Freedom of Information Act. First, regarding the contracts involving Face2Face Contact and Intrum Justitia, I note that information about the purpose of these contracts was withheld, citing exemptions under Sections 31(1)(a), (b), (d) and (g) and (2)(a) of the Act.  Irespectfully draw your attention to the fact that, in the case of Face2Face Contact Limited, precisely this matter had already been considered in the Internal Review,IR2011012, of Question 5 of my earlier request RFI20110330, where the same information had been sought. In the Review, dated 23rd May 2011, it was stated:  "1 am not satisfied that the information sought, if disclosed, is likely to influence the public's perception of detection tactics and outcomes and is likely in turn to impact on public behaviour regarding the voluntary payment of the TV licence fee In the circumstances I therefore uphold the appeal."  The requested information was then provided in a supplement, also dated 23rd May 2011, to the original response to RFI20110330. I will therefore not request this same information again. However, my arguments in seeking the Review would have applied equally well if "Face2Face Contact" had simply been substituted by "Intrum Justitia" (indeed more so now, given that an even greater time has elapsed since those activities were carried out). In view of the Review IR2011012, I therefore invite you reconsider. I ask:  (1) Please state for what purpose, or purposes, Intrum Justitia was contracted in respect to "TV Licensing" up until 2008. If you should still choose to withhold this information, then it is likely that I will seek another internal review of this matter.  I now move on to Verint Consulting. I am a little puzzled by the implication that this company has been neither contracted by, nor subcontracted on behalf of,	20/02/2013	22/02/2013	TP
			Furthermore, you state that you have interpreted my request as being restricted to "services in respect of TV Licensing". I did not specify this in my question. My only reference to ""TV Licensing"" was with regard to the trading name adopted by an intermediary company, in the event of the task having been subcontracted. It did not refer to tasks performed by the particular company I was asking about. Perhaps I should have stressed this point, and I apologise if it was misleading. I therefore ask:  (3) Please provide me with the start and end dates, and a statement of the purpose, of every contract between the BBC and Verint (or Verint Consulting) or between any company acting on behalf of BBC and Verint (or Verint Consulting) since 1st January 2007.  Regarding Communisis, it is stated that the contract is in respect of "printing and fulfilment" services. I would be grateful for some further precision. In particular, the BBC has stated that, each year, upwards of twenty million letters are distributed to unlicensed properties by Proximity using the trademark of "TV Licensing". I ask:  (4) Is Communisis currently responsible for the printing of the letters distributed to unlicensed properties with the trademark of ""TV Licensing"? Is Communisis also responsible for the folding of these letters, their insertion into envelopes, and the sealing of these envelopes? If not, please state which company is currently responsible for each of these respective tasks, giving the dates of any relevant contracts.  It is stated that, since 1st July 2012, G4S has been subcontracted by Capita for services in respect of "TV Licensing". I ask the following in relation to the activities of G4S under this contract (irrespective of whether or not these activities relate directly to data cleansing or the identification of empty/derelict premises):  (5) In carrying out any of these activities since 1st July 2012, has any employee of G4S entered on to private property (including private grounds) at any unlicensed address?  (6) In carryin
			(7) Has G4S been given any leaflets, or other printed material, to distribute to unlicensed properties since 1st July 2012? If so, please provide a copy of any such leaflet, or printed material.  (8) Since 1st July 2012, has any employee of G4S made any attempt to enquire, or to investigate, as to whether or not television receiving equipment is in use at any unlicensed property?  Finally I would like to ask the following:  (9) Please provide me with a list of all companies, other than Capita or G4S, which have been contracted, or subcontracted, or otherwise employed since 1st January 2011 to visit unlicensed properties on behalf of the BBC.  I note that if has previously been explained to me that, for its own internal purposes, the BBC uses the term "visit" in a very restrictive sense. I stress that I am employing the word here in accordance with common usage. Therefore, activities constituting a "visit" would include entering on to private land surrounding any such property, or attempting to attract the attention of any potential occupier of any such property, or distributing leaflets or other printed material to any such property, etc."
RFI20130286	21/03/2013	[Withheld under Section 40(2)]	I would like to know how many people were fined for not holding a TV licence in both the years 2010 and 2011. Please could the figures be expressed for the whole country, the county of Lincolnshire, and the city of Lincoln if possible? Additionally, the total money received from the fines in the aforementioned areas.  I would be interested in any information held by your organisation regarding my request. I understand that I do not have to specify particular files or documents and that it is the department's responsibility to provide the information I require. If you need further clarification, please contact me by (state your preferred method of communication here, ie: email, phone, post).  I would like to receive the information in (specify your chosen format here: electronic, hard copy and/or to inspect the documents on site). If my request is denied in whole or in part, I ask that you justify all deletions by reference to specific exemptions of the act. I will also expect you to release all non-exempt material.
