Dear Dobert

Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA)

Thank you for your request under the FOIA, which was received on 30th May, for the following information:

Apart from HMRC which other authorities are competent to supply details of personal income tax receipts."

You have the right to get a copy of the information that is held about you. This is known as a subject access request.

This right of subject access means that you can make a request under the Data Protection Act to any organisation processing your personal data. The Act calls these organisations 'data controllers'.

You can ask the organisation you think is holding, using or sharing the personal information you want, to supply you with copies of both paper and computer records and related information.

HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) is the UK's tax authority and is a data controller within the meaning of the Data Protection Act 1998.

Any request for personal data held by HMRC about your tax affairs should therefore only be addressed to HMRC.

Further information regarding the data that HMRC's holds about you and how to request it can be found in our Data Protection factsheet :

You must request a review within 2 months of the date of this letter. It would help us carry out our review if you set out the aspects of the reply that concern you and why you are dissatisfied.
